

Are you a healthcare provider? Do you provide treatment to people with disordered eating or substance use?

We want to hear about your experiences providing care!

Researchers at the University of New Brunswick are looking for healthcare providers to take part in a study on their experiences and perspectives related to treatment for people with disordered eating and substance use. Please consider participating if you are:

- A healthcare provider of any type (e.g., counsellor, psychologist, psychiatrist, social worker, dietitian, or any other type of healthcare professional)
- Work in Canada, and
- Have provided treatment for disordered substance use and/or disordered eating.

You will first complete an online survey. Then, you may be asked to take part in a 60-minute online focus group. If you participate in the focus group, a $20 charitable donation will be made on your behalf.

To learn more about the study and indicate your willingness to participate, please complete this short survey:
